When making the changes to the Towers of Hanoi, when it comes to the recursive and iterative versions of this code the timing seems to be a little different. After running both programs for 10 minutes each, it seems that the iterative version ran a little faster than recursive version.